AN UNDESERVED IMPUTATION

Mr. R. B. Bennett, K.C., M.P., Calgary's multi-millionaire, says characteristically that there are 4,000 good reasons why Progressive members will support the Government. The assertion undoubtedly is to the amount of the successful industry, which some of the Progressives might lose if by refusing to support the Government they brought on a general election.

That is a slanderous accusation. The Progressive members have not shown that they are different from other members of Parliament save their political views. There is no reason to suppose that their pockets govern their votes. That is not true and never has been true of the representatives of any party, barring an occasional individual exception. As a body the Progressives are entitled to be counted honorable men, who will support or oppose the Government as they think to be in the interests of the country.

The inference from Mr. Bennett's observation is that the Calgary member still proceeds upon the assumption that a political opponent should never be credited with a good motive when a bad one can be found; and that in his opinion there is not much likelihood that the Progressives can be got to line up with Mr. Meighen.

THE EMPIRE STILL STANDS

Lord Parmour insists that there can be no flexibility in the joints of the British Empire; either Canada and the other Dominions must be consulted before Britain commits itself to any serious course in international affairs, or the Dominions must break away from the world-girdling commonwealth, declare their independence and be recognized as independent states as separate and self-dependent states.

As a logician, no doubt he is right. The one thing or the other ought to be done in order that all the paper conditions for continued union may be provided, and the scruples of previous duty accommodated. But this is a world of blind men, and the world is not a party to the treaty with the Turks, nor to the Locarno pact. But if His Lordship thinks this Dominion is going to kick itself out of the Empire because Britain assumed those obligations, he is the victim of a large misapprehension. Most still, and thicker than water, and sentiment stronger than the finicky requirements of formalism.

MORE SPEED DESIRABLE

The Government elevator in this city is reported full to the roof, with the outgoing volume of grain not more than sufficient to make room for that coming in. There could be no more convincing proof that the present slow movement is not too soon, and that it is doing a real service to the farmers and to all who are interested in the grain trade. Without the elevator a large proportion of the grain now winnowed there would be lying in grain granaries and other less suitable places, and much of what is going forward would have to be sold as dump grain, and therefore at a lower price than it brings after passing through the drying plant.

The present season is exceptional in the amount of grain which needs to be dried. To that, in part, may be due the accumulation that has taken place here. But another contributing factor has been the comparatively slow movement to the Pacific. Whatever the cause, reports from Vancouver are that the elevators there have not been utilized to more than half their capacity thus far in the shipping season. Now that the Lakes have closed there will be a greater pressure on the Pacific outlet, and the movement westward will doubt a larger.

Outflow during the earlier weeks of the season would have left the elevators and rolling stock free to meet that extra demand to better advantage.

To function as it should, in future years the westward movement will have to be started at high speed as soon as the prairie wheat begins to run out of the separators. At present, grain which should go to the Pacific is diverted eastward during the season of open Lake navigation, and the cheaper westward route is only brought into full play when there is no other route open. With the Vancouver route closed, the eastern route open the year round, and more money for the grower if his grain goes out that way, there never should be anything resembling a grain blockade so far as this province and western Saskatchewan are concerned. But the present practice of disregarding the Pacific route while the eastern route is open, and then trying to jam the whole unexported balance of the crop through the western

OUR DAILY POEM

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LIFE IS A GIFT

Life is too rare a gift for thoughtless living.
Would I had known it in the bygone days,
But youth finds age no tender and forgiving.
It never thinks to change or mend its ways.

Now I am older grown. The dance goes longer.
Lures me to trip on pleasure's rosy way.
Had I been wiser, now I should be stronger,
Braver and fitter for my task today.

I have been foolish in my selfish seeking.
Squandered my friendships, run my chances through.
Ignored good people by my careless speaking.
Spelled by ill-temper much I tried to do.

My records down, and sadly now I view it.
I am not all I had the strength to be.
I took the gift of life and soon ran through it.
As though life would renew the gift for me.

Some take the gift and squander it in pleasure.
Some stain it dark with little sins and mean.
God pours out life from His abundant measure.
And age, too late, learns what it could have been.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the Daily Edmonton Bulletin, Monday, January 8th, 1906.

The lawyers and doctors of the city settled a disagreement on Saturday afternoon that has existed between them for some time. The means of settlement was a hockey match, and judgment was given in favor of the lawyers by a score of 6 to 1. The game was fast and Peter Burley, who refereed, remarked afterward that he was about the sorest man in the bunch.

H. J. Sullivan, who is to fill the position of Canadian Northern agent in Edmonton, arrived in the city on Saturday and commenced his duties today. He replaces Mr. W. J. Pace who will now commence his duties as assistant superintendent covering the district between this city and Dauphin.

TEN YEARS AGO

From the Morning Bulletin, Saturday, January 8th, 1916.

London—Nearly a hundred British subjects who had been here for some time today.

Toronto—Church union has been carried by the Presbyterian church. The majority was 53, 17, the minority, however, is so large that it is thought doubtful if the General Assembly will impose union on the 93,156 members who voted against it.

Ottawa—A Dominion-wide prohibition movement has been launched here.

Washington—Germany has agreed to pay an indemnity for the Americans who were drowned when the Lusitania was sunk at the same time, basing a reservation of any wrong doing upon the contention that the destruction of the vessel was in part of retaliation for the British war ship of Germany.

London—Serbia has had six capitals in the last two months.

Among the reminders of the gladsome Christmas season of course have to be included those gods of stickiness still adhering to the furniture.

Mr. Gardiner, Progressive member for Assiniboia, has been elected a portfolio in the Dominion Government. But he got to Ottawa well in advance of the session, for reasons not stated. Perhaps the report erred only in that it was premature.

PARADISE BY LAW

LAST night when I flopped into bed I felt like biting the bed post.

Everything had gone wrong, from morning until night.

The world was going to the bowwows and the wicked were prospering mightily.

If I were Sultan of this sorry scheme of things, I reflected, I could shatter it by bits and remould it nearer to the heart's desire.

But I was not.

Moreover, in this land of democracy there seemed little chance of my ever attaining such a shattering power.

Then I remembered the latest reports from the legislative firing line.

In Hamilton, New Jersey, so my morning paper had reported, three politicians had passed a second reading of the Council, they eliminated from the township of Berlin the cackling of hens, the crowing of roosters, the barking of dogs, the blowing of horns and the backfiring of automobiles. Also in Port Arthur, Texas, the cracking of peanuts in public gatherings was abolished forever by a legislative decree.

Paradise by law seemed on the way.

I began to consider the pleasant possibilities.

Instead of being a Sultan all I needed to be was a Senator.

If legislative power resided in my hands, so, like the Queen in "Alice in Wonderland," I would say, "Off with their heads!"

What deceptions would take place first?

I began to feel better already and snuggled down under the covers to contemplate.

First of all the "end seaters" disappeared from our fair land in a sweeping decree.

They are the gentle waiters of the human species who persist in arriving early at public gatherings and sitting in the end seats of the row and budge only with four looks when others have to crawl over them.

Also the late comers at public gatherings who come in with scuffling feet.

Also pedestrians who walk along highways on the right-hand side of the road, where the speeding machines approach from the rear, instead of on the left-hand side, where they can see machines coming and flee for their lives if necessary.

Then came those who drive automobiles and cut in close in front of machines they pass and immediately slow up.

Next on the list came men who feel it beneath their dignity to whisper and speak to their friends during a lecture in a drowsy audible monotone.

After this legislative outburst I felt a great deal more at peace with the world, and, if I remember rightly, like Abou Ben Adam sank into deep dreams of peace.

UNCOMMON SENSE

—BY JOHN BLAKE—

THE PROCESSION from left to right, studying the others in the ranks.

Again there is a reflective thoughtful face, with the tightly ground lips that mean determination.

Look out for that fellow, if you ever meet him.

Through all recorded times his name has been surrounded by legends and there has been in it a figure of a man who lived and only once changed the idea or the thought of men.

The procession made up mostly of the General Avenue and most of the thought of the philosophers have come.

Look at this procession as often as you can, and remember that you are moving along in it.

Your place may be very far toward the rear today.

When you try to move up, you will find the resistance, and most of it will be selfish, and will soon change before your determination.

You do not want to be of the General Avenue.

Do not be backward about asking for a good decision, however, will be a good one, which will bring long happiness.

A Thought

And the second is like, namely this. Thus shall they neighbor as thyself. There is no commandment greater than those—Mark 12:31.

Love and you shall be loved. All is mathematically just, as much as the two sides of an algebraic equation.

A model house is a good roof of men kind in just woman who smile.

Your Birthday?

FRIDAY, JAN. 8 If you are of legal age according to your own judgment, it is good but not always practical to have your birthday celebrated.

Do not be backward about asking for a good decision, however, will be a good one, which will bring long happiness.

"THE BURNING BUSH AND CANADA"

This is the title of a new volume from the pen of Rev. Dr. H. G. Macdonald of Vancouver. The purpose of the book is indicated by a quotation from the Bible: "This book is written in order that people, young and old, may see the viewpoint of Presbyterians regarding recent efforts to merge certain churches in Canada into a new denomination."

The book is well suited for study in meetings, classes, societies and services, as well as for personal reading. The idea behind the burning bush is to bring the Christian church to young people and to show the background of the Presbyterian church. Its history and significance, and the need for a new denomination. One chapter is devoted to a statement as to the requirement for organic union, in order to get out the views and aims of those who oppose that movement.

Edith—Absolutely! As soon as I saw him in his new Role-Royce!

"He took one look at her and told her to grab the first chance."

Dale—Fifteen-thirty.
Hill—By George, I've got to rush out and meet my wife at four o'clock!—Answers.

Barber—Ah—you shave yourself, I see.
Customer—No, sir! I was thrown through the windshield of an auto yesterday—Answers.

Maid (to absent-minded old gentleman)—Here's the doctor, sir.

"CLAWY" HEADGEAR—W. H. Y. Thornton, of Union City, Ga., with the live hawk which he captured near his home a week ago and on which he performed the almost unbelievable task of taming. A hawk is said to be about as sweet-tempered as a tiger fresh from the jungle.

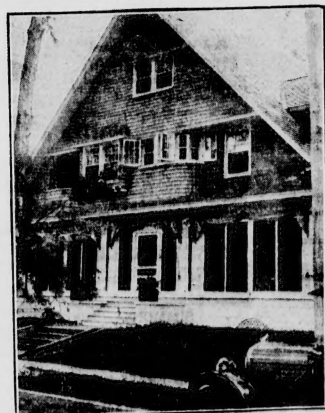

PAPAL ARTIST—Anton Van Welle, noted European painter, who has painted the portrait of Pope Pius XI, and his two predecessors. He is shown on his recent arrival in America.

PLANS ALTITUDE RECORD—Lieut. John Macready, garbed for his flight at Cook Field, O., in which he hopes to rise eight miles, to break the altitude record of 39,566 feet, established by the Frenchman, Caillet. His electrically-heated suit is lined with silk and feathers.

TIA JUANA TRACK OPENS—Big throngs throng the race track at Tia Juana, Mexico, where a hundred-day racing recently opened, attesting the popularity of the bang tail sport—particularly where wagering and liquid cheer are not taboo. Hundreds of persons daily make the pilgrimage from San Diego, Calif.

COUNTESS SALM'S "RETREAT" at Palm Beach, where she is hiding with her child, preparatory to her suit against her noble husband. New Year's Eve, however, she is entertaining a party of select guests and hopes thereby to break the monotony of consultation with private detectives and lawyers.

FOLLOWS "BIG" SISTER ON BROADWAY—Little Grace Shannon, aged 5, already a successful dancer, trying to imitate in an intricate dance-step her sister, Peggy Shannon, who is noted in theatrical circles for her twinkling toes and who is the little one's manager, nurse and guardian.

OUTDATES KING TUT—Prof. G. A. Reimer, of Harvard, who will be the first to enter the tomb of King Sennu, who lived probably thousands of years before the noted Tut.

LEFT—Frank C. Munson, Gotham steamship magnate, and Admiral Sir Francis Bridgeman, R.N., holding the first challenge cup presented by the Royal Yacht Squadron to the Royal Nassau Sailing Club (Bahama) soon to be opened. King George is a patron of the club.

RIGHT—E. R. Graham, prominent architect of New York, Chicago and London, and Mrs. Graham, the former Mrs. Ruby Lettingwell, after their recent wedding at Stoke Poges, immortalized in Gray's "Elegy." They traveled 6,000 miles to be wed in the little church.

REDSKINS IN LONDON—Red Indians from America, with squaws, papooses and cowboys, shown at Waterloo Station on their arrival to attend the great Olympia Circus.

THOMAS A. WATSON, pictured at the Boston commemoration of the 50th telescope anniversary. He was the first man to hear over the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell said "Come here, Watson. I want you."

BRIDE WANTS A TITLE—"Young" Stribling, light heavyweight boxing flash, with his bride, Macon, Ga., society girl. She doesn't want him to leave the ring. She wants him to win a title. The rule? Dempsey's heavyweight crown.

NO 21—THE SECOND CAT OF THE THIRD PRINCESS

"My daughters don't like me to sit in a cage," whispered Ub Glub to Nancy.

"WHAT did you come for?" asked Ub Glub when he saw Nancy. "I had managed to get myself out of the cage, but the cat was so big and fierce, and I can't move until I tickle my nose with a feather." "I tickle my nose with a feather," and soon sped a tiny green feather across between the bars of the cage which he passed to Ub Glub. "Wasn't Ub Glub the queer fellow though?" The Twins thought so, but they were entirely too polite to express their feelings. "I don't know," said Ub Glub suddenly, and everybody jumped. "Did you mind me?" asked the tall man with two noses popping into the room suddenly with the snubnose still under his arm. "I didn't. I was just seeing up an idea, that while you were here, you tell them good people where they can find a hair with an end."

Everybody looked so surprised at this odd remark that Ub Glub hastened to say, "Oh, I forgot to tell you I got an idea when I needed it. I think I know how you can catch that little low-legged animal of a snubnose. I can't tell you how to do it, but I can tell you the Nib Nub of Nobody's Land."

from head to foot with mud. The Third Princess had been making mud pies. "It's just a button and the bird cage disappeared through the ceiling, perched and all, dropping the visitors out into nice red velvet chairs quite heavily and soft." "My daughters don't like me to sit in a cage," whispered Ub Glub to Nancy. "You see, I only do it to be safe from snubnose, for we never can tell who is going to get in." "What a foolish thing to do!" said the Third Princess. "What is it, Daddy?" asked the Third Princess. "What did you do for me?" "I was having such a good time in the beautiful mud! There is no mud in Nobody's Land." "And only nobody play where there is mud," said Ub Glub severely. "The daughter of the Nib Nub should have some pride. Where's your cat?" "Which cat?" "The second cat. Has it hairs in its whiskers with three ends?" "Sure," said the Third Princess. "He sneezed them and they all split, some of them are even quite curly. The very thing," said Ub Glub, "bring him here." "What next?" thought the Twins. "This is the queerest place yet." (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)
